The Customer is solely responsible for maintaining the security of its network, software, program, product, services, equipment and applications. The Customer agrees to immediately notify ICE Data Services of any unauthorised use of the Service or any other breach of security known to the Customer. If the Customer becomes aware of any violation of this Policy by any person, the Customer is required to notify ICE Data Services. The Customer shall be solely responsible for any information or material they maintain, transmit, download, view, post, distribute, or otherwise access or make available on, through, using or in connection with the Service.

This includes extortion threats that involve threat of "denial of service" attacks, unauthorised access, or other security events. The Customer shall cooperate with ICE Data Services in investigating, preventing, and/or connecting any actual or apparent breach of this Policy.

CONFIGURATION

The Customer is responsible for configuring its own systems to provide the maximum possible accountability and industry-standard security features. ICE Data Services shall not be liable for any damage caused by such system configurations regardless of whether such configurations have been authorised or requested by ICE Data Services. For example, the Customer should ensure there are clear "path" lines in news headers so that the originator of a post may be identified. The Customer should also configure their Mail Transport Agents (MTA) to authenticate (by look-up on the name or similar procedures) any system that connects to perform a mail exchange, and should generally present header data as clearly possible. As another example, the Customer should maintain logs of dynamically assigned IP addresses.

The Customer is responsible for educating itself with regard to standard financial industry practices for system security. Should systems at the Customer's site be violated, the Customer is responsible for reporting the violation and then fixing the exploited system. For instance, should a site be abused to distribute unlicensed software due to a poorly configured FTP (File Transfer Protocol) server, the Customer is responsible for re-configuring the system to stop the abuse. Irrespective of any items to the contrary in any agreement between the Customer and ICE Data Services, ICE Data Services reserves the right to audit the Customer and to take all appropriate actions to ensure compliance with all requirements of this Policy.

PRIVACY

ICE Data Services makes no guarantee regarding, and assumes no liability for, the security and integrity of any data or information the Customer transmits via the Service or over any network, including any data or information transmitted via any server designated as secure.

GOVERNING LAW

This Policy is governed by and construed in accordance with English law. The courts of England shall have exclusive jurisdiction to hear and settle any action, suit, proceeding or dispute in connection with this Policy notwithstanding the presence of multiple defendants or the introduction of third parties, even for urgent proceedings, appraisals or conservation measures by expedited procedure or by filing a petition.

In most cases, ICE Data Services will notify the Customer of complaints received by ICE Data Services regarding an alleged violation of this Policy. The Customer agrees to promptly investigate all such complaints and take all necessary actions to remedy any violations of this Policy. ICE Data Services may inform the complainant that the Customer is investigating the complaint and may provide the complainant with the necessary information to contact the Customer directly to resolve the complaint. The Customer shall identify a representative for the purposes of receiving such communications.

Any complaints regarding prohibited use or other abuse of the Services, including violations of this Policy, should be sent to ICE Data Services. Please include all applicable information that will assist ICE Data Services in investigating the complaint, including all applicable headers of forwarded messages.

If the Services are experiencing live attacks, Customers should call into the ICE Data Services Help Desk at +44 (0)20 7488 5100 (ICEHelpdesk@theice.com) to submit a complaint as quickly as possible. Should they need immediate attention, the Customer should describe the urgency of the situation. If the Customer is unsure whether any contemplated use or action is permitted, please submit questions or comments to ICE Data Services.
