ICE Futures U.S. To Delist Certain Futures and Options Contract Months for Several Russell Index Contracts

Effective with the start of trading on Tuesday, October 7, 2008, ICE Futures U.S. is delisting all currently listed contract months for each of the following Russell Index contracts:

Russell 1000 Growth Index options
Russell 1000 Value Index options
Russell 2000 Growth Index futures
Russell 2000 Value Index futures

Also effective with the start of trading on Tuesday, October 7, 2008, the Exchange is delisting the March 2009, June 2009 and September 2009 contract months for each of the following Russell Index contracts:

Russell 1000 Growth Index futures
Russell 1000 Value Index futures
Russell 3000 Index futures and options

All currently listed contract months through and including the December 2008 expiry will continue to trade for these products, and are not affected by this delisting. No new contract months will be listed until further notice, therefore when the December contracts expire on Friday, December 19, 2008, no contract months will then be listed for trading in these products.

In the first quarter of 2009, the Exchange intends to relist several of these futures and options contracts for trading on the ICE electronic trading platform, with certain revisions to contract terms becoming effective upon relisting. Details on the revised terms and a relisting schedule will be announced shortly.
